As I write these words I am on a train headed home from this year's AIPAC policy conference in Washington, DC. Together with a small delegation from our congregation, we were blessed to spend the past few days with over 18,000 people committed to promoting a strong, bipartisan and enduring relationship between the United States and Israel. Jews across all denominations and affiliations, and members of other faith traditions and cultural backgrounds came together in support of ensuring a strong and lasting relationship between the US and Israel. As in years past, AIPAC did not disappoint; between break-out sessions on a wide range of topics, hosted by people on all sides of the political spectrum and speakers that included members of Congress who don't seem to agree on much else in these hyper-partisan political times, we spent a great deal of time hearing about Iran and challenges on Israel's Northern border, BDS, the recent decision to move our embassy to Jerusalem, the challenges of the current stalemate with the peace process, and the importance of working to ensure that Israel has enough funding to ensure her security.

In addition, we heard from a variety of speakers about Israeli innovations and took some time to honor some of Israel's history as we approach the 70th anniversary of her existence this year! There is one session, however, that stood out to me above the rest. We were honored to hear from Natan Sharansky, a former minister in the Knesset, Chairman of the Jewish Agency, and the symbol for the movement to free Soviet Jewry from communist oppression in the 1980s. Appearing alongside his daughter, Rachel Sharansky Danziger, the two were discussing the historic movement, the unity that seemed to bring American Jewry together (in reality, Sharansky said it was quite fractured at the time), and the significance of Israel's acceptance of so many Soviet Refusenicks. Their conversation was inspiring and very emotional, as I recalled hearing about all of this as a young child in grade school. And then it hit me. My children, and the many teenagers and college students in the room with me had no concept of experiencing what was being discussed. They have no real memory of Israel's role as providing safe-haven for Jews around the world. They have little emotional investment or lived understanding of the historic narratives that include Israel's rise from the ashes of the shoah, the six-day war, the Yom Kippur War, Soviet Jewry, or operations Moses and Solomon which brought massive waves of Ethiopian Jews to Israel. As Israel turns 70 this year, many of these millenials have only known Israel as a strong, innovative, and military power who is in a never-ending conflict with the Palestinians and her neighbors. Some of them, understandably, are challenged by the complicated and less than perfect aspects of Israel and Israeli society. They approach Israel from a different lens than me, of many who are reading this column. And that is why I want to encourage all of you to do one thing: share your narratives of Israel with your children and grandchildren. Help them to have a sense of the history that you have witnessed. Invite them to have a conversation with you about Israel. Make sure to listen to their thoughts, criticisms, and questions about where Israel has come and where Israel is going as it completes its seventh decade.

Natan Sharansky and his daughter were serving as inspirational witnesses to history for all of us in the room on that morning. Each one of us, to the extent that we are able, has the responsibility to do the same for our children and grandchildren as Yom Ha-atzmaut, Israel's independence day, approaches.

May the next 70 years of Israel's existence be filled with peace and security with her neighbors.

May each of us endeavor to understand our history so that we can learn from it, and may Israel take lessons from her history as she strives to live up to her highest ideals and aspirations. And may all of us, our children, and our grandchildren, never forget that we too are a part of the amazing and incredible story that is the return of the Jews to our national homeland, Medinat Yisrael, the state of Israel.

2017-2018 ADULT ED COURSE OFFERINGS

Lunch N'Learn: Journey Through The Prophets

We read the Haftarah, a selection taken from the Book of Prophets, in synagogue every week. Often these Haftorot are challenging to understand both in terms of their context and relevance to modern day life. Just who were these "prophets?" Why were they so important to Biblical Israel and why do we continue to read about them today? When did they live? What did they preach? And what messages do they have for modern day society? Come and join us for an introductory look at the Prophets in the Hebrew Bible. Bring your friends, your questions, and an openness to the wisdom of some of our earliest teachers and leaders. No previous Bible study necessary. We look forward to seeing you!

Wednesdays at 12:00pm

From The Writings of Dr. Abraham Joshua Heschel

Rabbi, Dr., Abraham Joshua Heschel was one of the prominent Jewish figures of the 20th century. A leading rabbi, philosopher, theologian, and scholar -- Heschel's influence on the American Jewish community in general and the Conservative movement in particular cannot be overstated. Come and join us as we spend a few weeks scratching the surface of this towering Jewish figure by exploring some of Heschel's most significant thoughts and writings and their relevance today. As always, feel free to bring a friend; our classes are open to the community! If you'd like to register for this class please RSVP to the temple office.

Sustaining Commitment 2018-2019

Our sustaining commitment model has been a success. In order to continue that success and ensure we do not have to revert back to a dues-based synagogue, we need your continued generous support and your response to the commitment letter you received in the mail. Please be sure to fill in your commitment pledge and return it before April 2nd. If you do not return a completed pledge form, we will presume that your commitment remains unchanged from last year.

As we go into our fourth year of the sustainability model, your response and commitment are critical to our ability to create a realistic budget, plan activities and programs, address staffing needs, and make needed repairs and upgrades in our facilities for the coming year. Please take a few minutes to give your feedback and support.

Thank you for your support and generosity!

MEET THE AUTHOR SERIES

Sunday, April 29, 2018 - 11:00am

Meet Francine Klagsbrun author of Lioness

Winner - Best Jewish Book of the Year

Lioness is a gripping and detailed biography of Golda Meir, whose life and career are a lens through which the author examines Israel's challenges – issues of borders, settlements, terrorism, and social and ethnic divides. As a Russian woman who emigrated to the US at age eight and moved to Palestine in 1921, Golda went on to become a key political figure in Israel's rise to statehood and its only female prime minister. This book follows the trajectory of her career from Zionist fundraising in the US to government positions under David Ben-Gurion, from leader of her country to her political fall from grace after the Yom Kippur War.

Francine Klagsbrun is the author of more than a dozen books and has written for many Jewish publications as well as for The New York Times and the Boston Globe. She was influential in the earliest days of feminism and the women's movement.

Pre-Paid $15 per person/$20 at the door.
Books available in the temple office for $25.
A catered brunch will be served.
Reservations at www.torat-el.org or 732-531-4410

This ongoing series has been made possible by a generous grant from the B'nai Sholom/Beth El Foundation.
