A MUSICAL SHABBAT AT THE BEACH

As some of you know, last February I was privileged to attend a conference entitled "Songleader Boot Camp" (SLBC), which was launched in 2009 in an effort to create "immersive, inspirational, and strategic Jewish leadership programs for Jewish clergy, educators, and songleaders." As a former song leader at Camp Ramah in my teens and college years, a congregational Rabbi who cares deeply about bringing the power of song and music into our community, and someone who always loves to learn new things about leadership, I thought that this was a conference not to be missed. Thankfully, I was correct. The conference was simply incredible. Along with hundreds of Jewish educators, clergy, and lay leaders from synagogues, JCC's and Jewish summer camps, we spent a few days remembering how to bring a sense of deep Jewish connection, purpose, and passion into our personal and professional lives.

The goal of the conference was really not song leading, but rather a way to teach Jewish leaders from around the country about how to bring a sense of depth and connection back to their communities through leadership training, musical experiences, engaging prayer, and deep Torah study. The vehicle used to do this throughout the weekend was often music and song, but the vehicle was a means to an end, and not the end itself. In truth, the conference was indescribable in words, which is perhaps appropriate for a musically based conference. If I had to explain it using language, I would say that it was a conference where music meets leadership, meets Torah study, meets what I imagine an evangelical revival meeting must be like!

As with many conferences I attend, I left feeling spiritually uplifted, nourished, and refreshed. But I was left with one critical question. How can I take all that I experienced (or at least some of it), and bring it back to our community? How can I take the creative prayer experiences, the new and beautiful melodies, the sense of souls connecting to one another and to their Judaism, and bring it back home?

And then it hit me. Shabbat at the Beach was the perfect place to begin.

Each summer as we gather for our Friday night services on the beach, the location, the different pace of the beach season, and the sense of friendship and community that is felt between us always ensure that these Erev Shabbat services are some of the most special of the year. Shabbat at the Beach is the perfect setting to try to infuse a bit more kavanah (spiritual feeling and intention) into our prayer service. Shabbat at the Beach is the perfect place to begin sharing with you a bit of what I learned and experienced a few months ago at SLBC.

As a Conservative congregation, we are always striving to balance the keva (fixed liturgy) with a sense of kavanah (spiritual feeling and intention). That is part of the reason that we bought the Lev Shalem siddur earlier this year. Shabbat at the Beach this year is going to be a service in which we focus more on kavanah and less on keva. Those who know me know that I tend to be a "traditionalist" when it comes to prayer. And yet, I have come to realize that every so often, one has to take a pause in the keva to reconnect to the kavanah side of the equation. That is what we are going to aim to do on June 23rd at our first Shabbat at the Beach service. With the help of a few of our musician lay leaders, this service will have instrumentation and will be an abbreviated service. We will not "daven" every word of the service, but will rather take time to focus on praying "more" with "less" liturgy. We are going to aim to have a deeper, more contemplative, and soulful prayer experience through music, singing, and a more intimate seating arrangement.

I hope that you will all join us on Friday, June 23 at 7:15pm for our first Shabbat at the Beach of the season at Conover Pavilion in Deal. The second one will be August 11th at 7:15 pm. Give yourself this gift of welcoming in the Shabbat with prayer, song, and a sense of calm and spiritual nourishment that is a wonderful way to end each week. I am looking forward to sharing some beautiful music and connection with each of you, and wish all of you a wonderful "beach season" throughout the rest of the summer!

REFLECTIONS OF MY PRESIDENCY - LAWRENCE H. SHAPIRO

Well, it's been two years already. Time flies when you're having fun! And I mean that.

I came into this position with several goals for both the Temple and me personally. On a personal level, I hoped to work on patience, being a better listener, and being open to the ideas, thoughts and feelings of others. Hopefully, I met those goals.

With regard to goals for the Temple, I think we, and I mean we, met a lot of the goals as well. That couldn't have been accomplished without the help, time and talent of many, many people. Of course our Executive Director, Pam Cardullo, our office staff, Lisa Arnold and Joanne Bass, and Rich Salerno and Jacob Fineran. Also, a dedicated cadre of volunteers too numerous to name, so please accept this "thank you" and expression of gratitude. By the way, being better at saying thank you was also a goal I had; hopefully I met that one as well.

So, here are the goals I set for the Temple:

- add 50 new members;
- close our $100,000 plus budget deficit;
- resolve the Neptune Estates situation;
- enter into a long-term contract with the Rabbi; and
- stabilize the religious school.

In order to reach these goals, we built upon the solid foundation of how we had been doing things and made some changes. For example, Pam now oversees our fundraising, working with a strong committee. We hosted Alan Dershowitz, scholars in residence, and authors; enjoyed a Night at the Races; and shared some laughs at Comedy Night. Of course we continue our annual Brunch and are excited to honor our Master Torah readers this year, with special guest Cantor Siegel. We also revamped and strengthened our membership committee, thus expanding and strengthening the outreach of Congregation Torat El into the community.

Through the work of those two committees in particular, we have been successful in reaching the new member goal and closing our budget deficit. Thank you, Michael Breslow, for your tireless work on our finances and budget.

As of today, CTE stands at 466 member units. We had 465 two years ago. However, this number is deceiving because we did attract 35 new members over the last two years. While that is short of my goal of 50, when considered in light of natural attrition such as deaths, moving out of the area and the like, maintaining our membership number is quite remarkable.

As you all know, we were also successful in entering into a long-term contract with the Rabbi and will enjoy his leadership and hard work for years to come. A special thank you to the Rabbi, with whom I have had the pleasure of working closely over these last two years. His tireless efforts, enthusiasm and smarts are an asset we are lucky to have. Also, thank you to Jane-Rachel for her dedication and support of the Temple, all while juggling four kids. It truly is a family affair for the Schonbruns. Come to services any Saturday and you will see!

Our move from a dues model to a sustainability/pledge model continues to be a success.

The Neptune Estates debacle was resolved and the sale of a portion of the Temple Beth El Cemetery to a reputable builder was completed. As a result, and due in no small part to the tireless work of the Cemetery Committee, we have been able to establish a perpetual care fund for the cemetery, begin much needed renovations to the Cemetery and create an interfaith section. In a related vein, and in keeping with our open and welcoming nature, we have opened up the Temple building to hosting funerals for all members and allowing non-members to use our facility through an approved funeral home.

We have transitioned to a new siddur and lay leadership at services has continued to grow and flourish. Thank you to Ben Laskowitz for his work with both B'nai Mitzvah students and our lay leaders, and to the Ritual Committee for their work and dedication in ensuring that CTE meets its halachic and ritualistic obligations.

With regard to the religious school, we have maintained the school after the departure of Rabbi Metz and will be announcing our new Education Director in the coming weeks as we look to expand and enhance our school. In that regard, thank you to Sherrie Robinson for being our acting religious school director.

In a related matter, we will be opening our Early Learning Center in September which we hope will build upon the successful Mommy and Me programs we have been running the last few months and also be a feeder to our school. Thank you to Pam and our consultants for their hard work, and to Mark Haber for helping with physical plant issues in getting this off the ground.

We have overseen significant renovations and repairs to our building including the roof, the exterior walls, portions of the HVAC, and remodeling several classrooms. We also have new lights in the Social Hall and new carpet in the office thanks to the generosity of Men's Club and Sisterhood. Thank you.

Finally, I want to thank each and every one of you for your support of me and Congregation Torat El.

It is only because of all of you that we continue not only to survive, but thrive.

L'dor v'dor,

Larry

LIBRARY CHAI LITES

Welcome to the Koreen Family Library. We are located across the hall from the Main Office. The hours are the same as the Congregation Torat El office hours, plus 10am -1pm on Saturdays. We use the honor system to check out books and materials. The method is very simple: take your membership name card out of the Membership File Box, clip it with a paper clip to the book card, and drop them into the Checkout Basket on the desk in the Library. Done! Books and materials may be borrowed for two weeks or longer, if needed. As new books and materials arrive, we will review them in this column. If you borrow a book from this library and would like to write a review, please let us know. The following is a review of a new book that just arrived:

Jerusalem: A Cookbook

Yotam Ottolenghi and Sami Tamimi

With this cookbook, the authors have sought to unravel the sensations and the alphabet of Jerusalem, to experience the magnificent flavors of their childhood and to inspire the reader by the 4,000 years of history during which time the city changed hands endlessly. Jerusalem is an immense tapestry of cuisines, due to the unlimited number of cultures and sub-cultures residing within its walls. The inherent passion and energy the Jerusalemites have in abundance result in some fantastic food and culinary creativity.

Some of the recipes contained in this cookbook include traditional, age-old dishes, with no change or modern touch. Others are fairly traditional, but the authors have updated them to suit the times or their sensibilities. And then there are recipes that are loosely inspired by the flavors of Jerusalem but have not yet become local classics. Typical local dishes are left neglected, for example kugel, bagel, challah. According to the authors, the justification for the collection of recipes are their preferences and cooking habits, and those of their readers. The authors draw deep inspiration from Jerusalem and its food, but are in no way trying to represent its realities.

Cookbook sections are allocated to vegetables, beans and grains, soups, stuffed meat, fish, savory pastries, sweets and desserts, and condiments. Looking through the recipes and trying some out will inevitably lead you to new and exciting scents and flavors. Let us know which ones you like!

SISTERHOOD CHAI LITES

I want to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has made my three years as president of CTE Sisterhood a great success. There are too many people to thank individually, but know that it has been a pleasure to serve as president. We have done many wonderful programs over the years -- Torah Fund, Rummage Sale, Hamantashen Bake-a-thon, Shalach Manot baskets, January Luncheons, and May evening events, just to name a few. We even added a new program this year to teach members and non-members of the temple to learn to play Mah Jongg. I am very proud to be part of such an amazing group of women.

Thank you also to our office and maintenance staff. I could not have done it without you as well.

Good luck to Jeanne and Janet on their co-presidency. I am here, along with all our amazing CTE women, to support them for the next two years.
