Growing As A House Of Prayer

There is a story told by Rabbi David Wolpe about the great Hassidic master, the Seer of Lublin (18-19th century Poland). When he was a child, the seer of Lublin lived near a forest. Almost daily the young boy ventured off into the woods by himself. His father, who was basically a tolerant and understanding man, didn't want to interfere with his son's daily excursions, but he was concerned because he knew forests could be dangerous. One day the father pulled his son aside. "I notice that every day you go off into the forest," he said. "I don't want to forbid you to go there, but I want you to know I am concerned about your safety. Why is it that you go there, and what do you do?" "I go into the forest to find God," was the boy's simple response. His father was deeply moved. "That's beautiful," he said. "And I'm pleased that you're doing that. But don't you know? God is the same everywhere." "God is," the boy answered, "but I am not."

Discovering God in our world and in our personal lives is an incredibly difficult task. Creating the emotional, spiritual, and physical space to connect with God is a life-long endeavor. And sometimes, as our story indicates, this connection is dependent on the "spaces" that we are in, be they physical, emotional, or spiritual.

When I was on sabbatical last fall, it was with this story in mind that I approached the sacred task of attending different synagogues and independent minyanim across the North East, to see how these communities tackled the challenge of helping others discover God through tefilah, prayer. I attended Reform, Conservative, Renewal, and post denominational worship experiences. Each was different, but every prayer space was striving to achieve the same goal of helping its participants connect to a sense of the divine in their lives. Not surprising for such a daunting task, I found some services to be dreadfully boring and uninspiring and others to be uplifting and spiritually enriching. And I am confident that there were others with me in those services who felt the exact opposite in each circumstance!

A few examples: I attended one congregational service that looked very similar to ours with the notable exception that there was little congregational singing. The physical set up of the sanctuary was lovely, but I left that service with no real sense of spiritual connection. In another service, there was beautiful music and instrumental accompaniment, but very little Hebrew content. I left that service enjoying the music, but not being quite sure if I had truly "prayed." Another service that was very uplifting to me was filled with traditional prayer and communal song, even though there was no rabbi or cantor. Finally, yet another service that filled me with a sense of awe was filled with music, dancing, song, intention, traditional liturgical choices, and innovative ones. It was clear that this renewal community had made the choice to cut out many parts of the service, and "do more, with less." Interestingly, in every enjoyable service that I attended, time was not a factor for me (in the same way that it is not a factor with an enjoyable movie, sporting event, or concert).

When I came back to our community in the winter, I did so with a renewed commitment to help our members re-engage with the way in which we engage with tefilah, in our community. Our Shabbat services and weekday minyanim are wonderful for many of our members, but I know that others do not connect to prayer with this more "traditional" model. Some people like more English. Other people like music. Some people like a cantor. Other people might like more quiet meditation. I wondered what we might be able to do in our congregation to create additional experiences to encourage people to bring more tefilah, prayer, into their lives. How might we build opportunities for more people to take ownership over their prayer lives? How might we be able to create more "spaces in the forest" for people to connect with a sense of the sacred and divine in this world? This is a huge question that we should grapple with more openly as a beit tefilah, a house of prayer- not necessarily to "change" or "replace," but rather to widen our tent, and promote more options for people to experiment with their prayer lives both at home and in the synagogue.

It is with all that in mind that I am thrilled to invite you to participate in an Artist/Scholar in Residence Weekend, September 6-8 (see pg. 12). Please join us as we welcome rabbinical student Deborah Sacks-Mintz, an incredibly talented musician who is also studying to be a rabbi and already changing the face of American Jewish prayer and music in her own right. Deborah will join us in order to help us begin to explore how we might be more creative, intentional, and thoughtful about creating an enriching and meaningful prayer experience for as many of our members as possible. Whether you are a "regular" or someone who comes once a year, whether you can read Hebrew or can't, whether you are sure about God or you are not, whether you like a 30-minute service or a two-hour-and-30-minute service; whether you like musical instruments or you do not – this weekend is for you. Deborah is a musician rooted in tradition and creativity at the same time. Google her over the summer and check out some of her videos. And then, join us in the fall to add your voice to this incredibly important conversation as we strive to grow in our efforts to be a beit tefilah, house of prayer for our entire community.

Mazel Tov to our B'nai Mitzvah

My name is Jamie Valenti. I am in the seventh grade at the Ocean Township Intermediate School. I enjoy swimming, gymnastics, Girl Scouts and hanging out with my friends and family. My Bat Mitzvah is June 8. For my mitzvah project, I volunteered at the Lunch Break in Red Bank, New Jersey. The Lunch Break is an organization that provides food, clothing, life skills and fellowship to those in need in Monmouth County and beyond. Their purpose is to break the cycle of poverty in our community and teach self sufficiency for a healthier and more productive lifestyle.

According to a 2017 census, approximately 7.6% of the population in Monmouth County is below the poverty level. A lot of those people are children. That made me think "What if that was me?" That thought led me to volunteering my time. I helped in the grocery helping families gather groceries for their families. Helping those in need gave me such a feel of appreciation for what I have and a sense of wanting to do more. No one should ever be hungry and go without. This is an organization that I will continue to donate my time to helping those in need.

Hi, my name is Olivia Kaplan and I am so excited for my Bat Mitzvah. I live in Wayside with my mom and dad, Larry and Tracy, my brother, Logan, grandmother Linda and my cute dog Sadie. I'm a sixth grade student at Ocean Township Intermediate School. I enjoy horseback riding, baking, singing, doing makeup, hanging out with friends, and spending time with family. For my mitzvah project I delivered meals to elders in our community. My mom and I go out to drop off meals through the program. I also chose to be part of the Remember Us program, where I will be able to share my Bat Mitzvah with a girl that was killed in the Holocaust. It is important we remember, and never forget. Her name was Raitzel Kaplan. I'm looking forward to my Bat Mitzvah on June 22, and I hope to see you all there.

Hi my name Is Logan Kaplan and I will be celebrating my B'nai Mitzvah with my sister Olivia on June 22. I Live in Wayside with my parents Tracy and Larry, my grandma Linda, my sister Olivia, and my best friend Sadie (who is also my dog). I'm a seventh grader at TOIS. I have been involved with Boy Scouts since second grade and am working on Eagle Scout with Troop 71. I also enjoy collecting Lego's, watching Star Wars, being a fan of the Muppets, and making videos for my Youtube Channel. For my mitzvah project, I am working with the 501st, a non-profit organization that is also the largest costuming organization in the world. They wear movie-accurate costumes based on the Star Wars franchise and do charitable things like go into children's hospitals to cheer up kids. They also have a very underdeveloped anti-bullying program. When I was looking for a project, I wanted to do something that wouldn't be collecting things or donating money. I have been bullied a lot and when I saw this program, I wanted to help. I want to make sure that nobody will be bullied like I was and that it will help stop. I am also working with Remember Us. Once I put together my family tree on Ancestry.com and discovering my DNA, I learned I am a Cohen. I also learned about my ancestors who died in the Holocaust and I realized that there are so many people who were forgotten and even though I may not have known these people, I am one of the only ones who knows that they even existed. I then thought about the kids during that time whose whole families died and that nobody remembered them. The person I will be remembering is 12-year-old Yesel Kaplan and we will be Bar Mitzvah together, since he never could be. I cannot wait to see everyone on June 22.

Time to select some books for summer reading! We recommend the following titles available in our library:

The Last Palace by Norman Eisen, (943.71 Ei). Eisen, who was the US Ambassador to the Czech Republic 2011-2014, tells about his experience as a Jew living in the magnificent Petschek Palace during his assignment. This book covers the history of Prague from 1918-2018.

America's Jewish Women by Pamela S. Nadell (305.48 Na). This book was reviewed and highly recommended in The New York Times Book Review and covers the topic from colonial times to the 21st century. "It is truly remarkable to read this book and appreciate how these women, numerically small, qualitatively great – made such a tremendous impact on this nation."

The New American Judaism by Jack Wertheimer (296.09 We) examines our religion from new perspectives, such as feminism and the LGBTQ movement.

Our library is open whenever the synagogue is open. Come on down, browse around and check out some current books.

In addition to teaching and facilitating workshops nation-wide, Deborah is an acclaimed composer of new Jewish music, and can be found regularly performing and recording with a wide range of artists and ensembles. A Wexner Graduate Fellow, Deborah is pursuing rabbinical ordination at the Jewish Theological Seminary, and holds degrees in music and religious anthropology from the University of Michigan.

Chag Shavuot Sameach!

*Tikkun at Rabbi's House
Saturday, June 8, 8:00pm*

In a loving and powerful tribute to his late teacher, Rabbi Ariel Burger wrote Witness: Lessons from Elie Wiesel's Classroom. From Passover through Shavuot we invite you to explore this beautiful memoir, reading one chapter a week, and joining us for a night of study, discussion, (and cheesecake) together, as we consider the life and legacy of Professor Wiesel.

For planning purposes, kindly RSVP by June 4 to the temple office or online at www.torat-el.org

Shavuot Service - Sunday, June 9, 9:00am

Shavuot/Yizkor Service - Monday, June 10, 9:00am

Garden Fund Donations

In honor of Shavuot we are asking for donations to our Garden Fund to continue the beautiful landscaping work that has been started on the Temple grounds.

Please think of the Garden Fund when making your synagogue donations.

TRIP TO ISRAEL - SPRING 2020

We're going to Israel! Come and join us for a preliminary meeting to discuss plans for an upcoming congregational trip to Israel in the Spring of 2020. We will be travelling with DAAT travel, a leading expert in the area of educational tours to Israel. This trip will be geared to both "first timers" and include options for those who have previously travelled to Israel. Come and join both Rabbi Schonbrun and a representative from DAAT to check out a first draft of an itinerary and learn about this incredible opportunity to travel as a community to Israel! Our initial meeting will take place on Wednesday night, June 12 at 7:30PM following evening minyan in the small chapel.
