RECOGNIZING THE GOOD- MAKING EVERY DAY “THANKSGIVING”

Do you like coffee? Are you one of those people that can't start your day without coffee? I am not (I prefer tea), but years ago, I read an interesting book by A.J. Jacobs entitled Thanks A Thousand: A Gratitude Journey, which began with the following description:

It's a Tuesday morning and I'm in the presence of one of the most mind-boggling accomplishments in human history. This thing is so astounding in its complexity and scope, it makes the Panama Canal look like a third grader's craft project. This marvel I see before me is the result of thousands of human beings collaborating across dozens of countries. It took the combined labor of artists, chemists, politicians, mechanics, biologists, miners, packagers, smugglers, and goatherds. It required airplanes, boats, trucks, motorcycles, vans, pallets, and shoulders. It needed hundreds of materials – steel, wood, nitrogen, bugger, silicon, ultraviolet light, explosives, and bat guano. It has caused great joy but also great poverty and oppression. It relied upon ancient wisdom and space-age technology, freezing temperatures and scorching heat, high mountains and deep water. It is my morning cup of coffee. And I'm grateful for it. Really, really grateful (Introduction, Jacobs, Thanks A Thousand).

The book goes on to describe the thousand or so steps involved in bringing you that morning cup of coffee! The message? We would do well to consider just how many things on any given day we take for granted, and just how much there is to be thankful for in our daily lives. In Judaism, we call this idea “hakarat ha-tov,” which literally translates to “recognizing the good.” In order to train ourselves to be more grateful in our daily lives, we have to practice, we have to seek out the good. This may not take us around the globe or lead us to write a book about just how many people were involved in bringing us our mail, packages, food, water, heat, electricity, internet, etc. on any given day. But, taking time to “seek out” the incredible blessings in our lives, is a basic Jewish spiritual practice that we would do well to consider carefully as we approach Thanksgiving this year.

Cultivating an attitude of gratitude is fundamental to Jewish living. From the modeh/modah ani prayer that we are to say first thing in the morning, expressing our gratitude for the gift of life, to the many blessings we are encouraged to say throughout the day, we are invited to look for daily opportunities to express our thanks to God for the blessings and good fortune that so many of us experience in our lives. This is not always easy. As Rabbi Mordecia Gifter once taught: We humans have a tendency to always want more... It is easy to forget to feel grateful and happy with the good we already have. (Nevertheless,) we should strive to feel a joy that is complete. Lack of joy with what we have is destructive both physically and spiritually.

As the old cliché goes, many of us see the glass as half empty, instead of glass full. We have this struggle, or that problem. These challenges are real, they are painful, and they are difficult. And, at the same time, we are being reminded here that we have real blessings in our lives as well. The challenge is how we might learn to train ourselves to recognize them (hakarat ha-tov) as we go about our daily lives. It is a challenge that is critical because, as Gifter correctly points out, our inability to see the glass as half full is not good for our physical or spiritual health.

This year, at your Thanksgiving tables, I want to encourage each of you to practice hakarat ha-tov, and challenge each other to bring this exercise into your daily lives. Go around the table and name one very specific thing for which you are grateful (not just family, health, and friends). Take time to consider just how many things went into that “gift” that was a source of pleasure, enjoyment, or meaning in your life. And then, when you are done, consider reading the following prayer at your table.

A Thanksgiving Prayer - Rabbi Naomi Levy

For the laughter of the children, for my own life breath,

For the abundance of food on this table,

For the ones who prepared this sumptuous feast,

For the roof over our heads, the clothes on our backs,

For our health, and our wealth of blessings,

For this opportunity to celebrate with family and friends,

For the freedom to pray these words

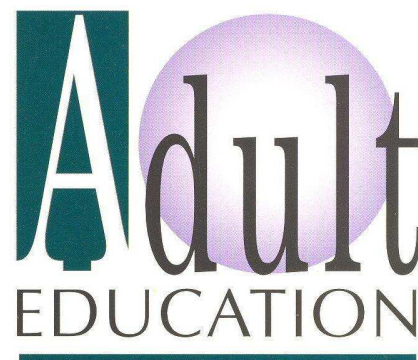

Without fear, in any language, in any faith, in this great country,

Whose landscape is as vast and beautiful as her inhabitants.

Thank You, God, for giving us all these. Amen.

May this be a meaningful Thanksgiving for you and your families, and may each of us challenge ourselves to grow spiritually by embracing every day as an opportunity for “thanksgiving.”

My People's Torah

Building relationships and creating connections with one another is a central part of our sacred work at Congregation Torat El. Our monthly My People's Torah program seeks to help us build on existing relationships and creating new ones as we hear different perspectives on Judaism and share in each other's personal life stories. Come and join us as we learn from one another while fostering closer relationships among our synagogue family.

Second Shabbat of each month following services unless there is a Bar or Bat Mitzvah.

Lunch & Learn: Torah Wisdom For Our Time

Our modern-day society is filled with social, political, and economic challenges that can sometimes feel overwhelming and impossible to handle. What does Judaism have to say about these issues and how can the wisdom of our tradition help us as we navigate the complexities of the day?

Come and join Rabbi Schonbrun each week as we delve into the wisdom of the weekly portion as it relates to social justice issues and the critical questions of the day. Studying from a book entitled The Social Justice Torah Commentary, we will explore the wisdom of rabbis across the denominational spectrum and across the country.

Lunch & Learn is held in person.

Wednesdays, 12:00pm; no class November 23

Genealogy — 3-Part Series

Lauren Shulsky Orenstein has been researching family histories for more than 25 years, dating back to a time when finding a census entry was an arduous process involving city directories and endless scrolling through microfilm. Her academic background in archaeology makes Lauren uniquely qualified to dig through records, new and old, to find the information needed.

Hassidic Wisdom for Today

For the past two and a half years, Rabbi Schonbrun has joined with colleagues around the country through the Institute for Jewish Spirituality, exploring the ancient wisdom of classic Hassidic sources, and their relevance in helping us live lives that are more mindful and intentional. While our understanding of Hassidic tradition often comes from our interactions with Chabad, our TV habits (shows such as Shtetl), or other preconceived notions of the ultra-orthodox world, the original texts of the Hassidic world have much wisdom to offer us in our modern lives. Come and join Rabbi Schonbrun as he shares some of his favorite Hassidic texts with you.

This evening class is held in person.

Wednesdays, November 9, 16, 7:30pm

Judaism's Big Ideas

Throughout its development, Judaism has introduced significant concepts and ideas that have had an outsized influence on society. This class will offer the opportunity to explore some of these big ideas and the role that they might play in our personal lives and our world outlook. Reading through Judaism's 10 Best Ideas, A Brief Guide for Seekers, written by Rabbi Arthur Green, we will explore the richness of some of Judaism's most central ideas and their relevance for our daily lives.

This class will be held on Zoom only.

Wednesdays, January 4 - March 8, 7:30pm

Praying with Intention

"Services are too long Rabbi." "These prayers are all the same Rabbi." "I don't believe in God anyway, and certainly don't think that God needs my prayers Rabbi." "There is too much Hebrew and we go too fast Rabbi." If you have ever felt any of these things, if you struggle with incorporating prayer into your daily life, or if you are curious to learn more about traditional prayer and the meaning behind some of our oldest liturgical poetry, then this class is for you! Come and join us as we explore a new book just released by Rabbi Leonard Felder, entitled How These Words Can Raise Up Your Energy, and explore the deeper personal meaning that we might discover from some of our key Jewish tefilot, prayers.

This class will be held in person.

Wednesdays, April 19 - May 24, 7:30pm
